A WOMAN HATER.

"Dannie, dear," said Mame, "I want you to swear on de good book not to disgrace de family while yer down in Cuba."

"Wot," interrupted Dannie, "is youse givin' me, Mame? Does youse tink I'm goin' ter run from de bullets? Does youse tink?"

Dannie gave the promise with a rough and was rewarded with a sisterly kiss. An hour later he started on his journey to the seat of war.

During the first eventful hour of the battle at San Juan hill Dannie Dugan's life was twice saved by Cowpuncher Grimes.

"Grimes, me boy, I'll never forget youse for plunkin' dat last dago who had de bead on me w'en me back was turned," said Dannie. "Yer a dead white guy an' a bute at handlin' a gun."

Before that historic day was three hours older a vagrant Manner bullet tunneled its way through Cowpuncher Grimes' left side and gave Dannie an opportunity to show his gratitude.

"I guess I've made my last gun play," he said to Dannie. "The best thing you can do, old pal, is to shake my flipper and let me cash in."

"Cash in?" growled Dannie. "I'm a-goin' ter carry yer back ter dem doctors an' have 'em putty up dat hole in yer liver. Youse too good a partner fer Dannie Dugan ter 'trow down'."

Grimes was in the hospital when Santiago surrendered, but a week later the surgeons decided that he was strong enough to make the journey to New York. Then it was that he sent for Dannie. When the latter materialized the wounded trooper raised his head from the pillow and put out his hand.

"Dannie," he said, "they're goin' to send us up to your town to New York. You have been awful kind to me, and I want to square accounts somehow. I didn't know but what I might do something for you when I got back to God's country—tote a message up to your people or anything else."

"Grimesey, old pal," replied Dannie, "youse kin do me an awful good turn in old New York. You kin go ter my sister Mame an' try an' square me wid de family."

"Square you, Dannie?"

"Yes, square me. Youse see, it's like dis: Just before I left de folks Mame she gets me inter de front room, puts me flipper on de Bible, an' jollies me inter promisin' dat I wouldn't get stuck on any of dese Spanish goirls down here. Well, say, whin I gave Mame me promise I'd never seen de little Spanish goirl wot I found a-moanin' over her dead mudder out back of El Caney de udder mornin'. Dere ain't no use of chewin' de rag over it. De fact is dat I'm dead stuck on Maria, an' as soon as dis scrap's finished I'm goin' to take her to de church an' get spliced. But, bully gee! I can't rest easy till I knows dat t'ings have bin squared wid me sister Mame, an' youse be de only guy as kin do it."

"Dannie, I reckon I'm what you easterners call a woman hater. I don't like de female breed, and it don't like me. I may make a mess of de job, but I'll do it. If I don't cash in before de transport gets to New York I'll see your sister and try and square it."

There came a knock at the door of the Dugan flat, and Mame answered it. As she opened the door a tall, slender man in a faded uniform of blue staggered in and all but fell into her arms.

"For God's sake give me a glass of water, miss! I ran away from the hospital, and I'm nearly knocked out. If you are Dannie Dugan's sister Mame, read this letter. It!"

The wounded trooper never finished that speech. With a moan of pain he fell face downward on the floor. Mame called in Mickie and her mother. They laid their unconscious guest on the sofa, and while Mame bathed his fever-battered brow with ice water her brother Mickie started on a still hunt for whiskey.

"That man ain't goin' to die, mudder," exclaimed Mame. "See, he's comin' to his senses now. Let's read de letter dat our Dannie sent by him."

She broke the seal and recognized her brother's handwriting.

After Mame had read the letter she took a second look at the man on the lounge. She saw that he was young and fairly good looking. Then she remembered that Dannie in his letter had said something about a bullet hole in Grimesey's side.

"Mudder," she cried, "he may be a woman hater an' he mayn't have any manners, but he saved our Dannie from croakin', an' it's only fair dat we should keep him right here an' nurse him. Tell Mickie to go fer de doc."

"God knows," moaned Mrs. Dugan. "If de best we got ain't too poor fer him. An' only to tink de pity of such a handsome lad as dat a-gettin' bullet holes in his sides an' a-havin' wimmen like a heathen."

Some time later this letter was sent by special delivery to Trooper Dugan in Santiago.

Dear Dannie—I have seen Mame and squared things for you. I'm thinking of settling here in New York. Tired of cowpunching. Besides, Mame won't stand for me movin' west. Your mother and all de folks send love. The hole in my side has healed nicely, and Mame says, oh, by de way, Mame's going to marry me Sunday after next! Send us your blessing, Yours, GRIMES.

P. S.—Dannie, dear, I'm jist addin' a word to tank youse fer sendin' me de cowpuncher wot hated wimmen. Give me love to de heathen what yer married, fer I'm dat happy dat I forgive yer both. As ever, MAME.

Your Own Home The Best Savings Bank

The first aim of every man and woman is to Own a Home, to have a place where they can eat and sleep should adversity come, and not be put into the street by the landlord when rent day comes round and there is no money to pay the rent.

Let Us Study Ourselves

If we have started wrong, let's get a new start. Let us form habits, good habits. This is one of the shortest, quickest roads to success.

Let Us Begin By Saving

Save our time, our health, our strength, our self-respect and some of our earnings by MAKING MONTHLY PAYMENTS ON A HOME. BUT YOU SAY—"I never could pay for a home; I am not earning enough!"

LISTEN—You are now paying, we'll say, $25 a month rent, that Must Be Paid every month or out you go.

SUPPOSE—You bought two lots in Government Hill, you would only have to pay $10 a month on the two, thus leaving $15 a month from your former rent dues for other purposes.

OR—You could have the two lots in Government Hill, build a small house on them and pay for both the house and lots at $25 per month, the amount you are now paying for rent.

The house and two lots would probably cost you $500 and at $25 a month you would pay for them in 20 months, less than 2 years, but if you continue to pay $25 a month rent for 20 months, what will you have left?

RAILWAY MEASURE GOES TO TAFT

Both Presiding Officer of House and Senate Sign Measure.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—The bill requiring railroads to report accidents to the interstate commerce commission, with power to later investigate all particulars, was signed by the presiding officers of both houses and delivered to the president today.

The defeat of Cummins's amendment to the court of commerce bill by six majority shows that the regulars retain control of the senate against the combination of Democrats and insurgent Republicans.

The regulars are negotiating to fix a date to vote on the bill and amendments, then taking up the statehood bill. Delegate Cameron has recommended a change in the Clifton postoffice to a more central location.

TULAROSA STUDENTS TAKE GRAMMAR EXAMINATIONS.

Lynn-Abbott Sulf Testimony Heard in Alamogordo, From Where It Has Been Appended—News Notes.

Tularosa, N. M., April 30.—Prof. R. S. Tipton has taken five of his advanced scholars to Alamogordo for the territorial grammar school examination. They are: Misses Mae and Nellie Sanders and Maude Abbott, and Edward Wharton and Ernest Wholenberg.

Former governor Curry has returned home after an extended trip over the territory.

The Lynn vs. Abbott case, which was sent to Alamogordo for trial, was appealed and held over for higher court which will be in September.

Mrs. Nancy Shields, who has been seriously ill, is better.

BISBEE CITIZEN RETURNS WITH BRIDE

12,000 Cattle the Expected Shipment—Medical Association to Meet at Bisbee.

Bisbee, Ariz., April 30.—D. F. Von Salza, who went to New York to be treated by specialists for injuries sustained by falling from a horse, has returned, bringing with him his bride, to whom he was married in New York.

Frank Oliver, a miner, caught by a caving while working at the Gardner shaft, was taken to the hospital. He was seriously injured.

The furniture of the Copper Queen hospital is being moved to the new place at Lowell. The new hospital will soon be ready for occupancy.

According to Inspector Sam Hayhurst, over 12,000 head of cattle will be shipped to eastern markets from this section of the country during the coming summer.

The Territorial Medical association has chosen Bisbee as the next place of meeting. Dr. Shine, of the Copper Queen medical staff, was elected vice president of the organization.

J. T. Hood has resigned his position as cashier of the Miners' and Merchants bank, where he has been established since 1902.

The new Ruffin drug store has been opened on Main street.

Mayor Neale has returned from Tombstone, where he has been on business, and states that the court will not be able to reach all the cases on the docket in the spring term.
